8 Best Gardening Hats for Ultimate Sun Protection and Style!

The best gardening hats offer protection from the sun that goes beyond just providing a little bit of shade. They protect your eyes. Moreover, they help regulate your body heat. Plus they have other great features such as protection from rain or insects. Of course, you might as well be stylish while in the garden (or anywhere!) Therefore, you'll want to explore the best gardening hats that fit your style.

What to Look For In Choosing Among the Best Gardening Hats

When choosing the best gardening hat, it's essential to consider various features to ensure it meets your specific needs and preferences. Here are some important features to look for:

Wide Brim

Opt for a hat with a wide brim. You usually want one that's at least 3 inches wide. This will provide ample shade and sun protection for your face, neck, and shoulders.

UPF Rating

Look for a gardening hat with a high Ultraviolet Protection Factor (UPF) rating to ensure it effectively blocks harmful UV rays from the sun.

Material

Consider the material of the hat. Lightweight, breathable, and moisture-wicking fabrics like cotton, nylon, or polyester are good choices for warm weather. For cooler seasons, choose a hat with insulating properties.

Adjustable Fit

Hats with adjustable features like drawstrings, chin straps, or elastic bands provide a customizable and secure fit, especially on windy days.

Ventilation

A gardening hat with ventilation holes or a mesh crown can help keep your head cool and prevent overheating.

Water Resistance

If you often garden in wet conditions, choose a hat with water-resistant or waterproof material to keep your head dry.

Neck Flap

Some gardening hats come with a detachable or built-in neck flap that offers additional sun protection for the neck and ears.

Insect Protection

If you're in an area with a lot of insects, consider a hat that has built-in insect repellent or mosquito netting to keep bugs at bay.

Durability

Look for well-constructed hats with reinforced seams and sturdy materials to ensure they can withstand the rigors of gardening.

Washability

Check if the hat is easy to clean and maintain, as gardening hats can get dirty from soil and sweat.

Best Gardening Hats for Ultimate Sun Protection and Style

Here are some of our recommendations for finding the best gardening hats with many of the aforementioned features:

FURTALK Womens Wide Brim Sun Hat with Wind Lanyard

This hat has over 12,000 reviews on Amazon and more than three-quarters of them are five-star reviews. It's a unique eco-friendly hat made from recycled paper. It comes in two sizes, and it has a velcro strap that helps with adjusting either size to better fit you. The brim is over three inches wide. And it has a UPF of 50+. At under $25 on Amazon, this is a solid choice.

Leotruny Women Super Wide Brim Sun Hat

UPF50+ Waterproof Bucket Hat

Although designed for fishing and camping, this is actually a great gardening hat. The brim is nearly 6" so you're going to have your own shade while you work. Other great features include UPF 50+, mesh panels for ventilation, an adjustable chin strap, and five different color options. If you want to make a style statement, this hat is a great choice. It's also under $25 on Amazon.

EINSKEY Sun Hat for Men/Women

This is a unisex hat that comes in eighteen different colors/prints so you can choose one (or more) that really suits your personal style. The brim is nearly 4" wide. It has mesh panels and a built-in sweatband, perfect for staying comfortable while working in the sun. However, if it happens to rain, you're covered because it's a waterproof hat.

Home Prefer Men's Sun Hat with Neck Flap

This is a lightweight, breathable, quick-drying hat that includes a flap to protect your neck. It has 50+ UPF. It comes in twenty different colors to suit your style. Although labeled for men, this hat works well for anyone. Note that it is a one-size-only hat, though, so if you have a small head then it might not be the right fit for you. However, check the brand for other hats that might work as they have a wide range of options. And, at under $20, this is one of the best gardening hats on the list in terms of affordability.

Jackell's Mosquito Head Net Hat

If you're looking for insect protection in addition to sun protection then try a hat like this one. It includes a mesh face veil to protect you from bugs while you work in the garden. The brim is almost 3", it has UPF 50+, and it costs under $20.

Palmyth Head Net Hat

This is another good choice if you're looking for a hat with an insect veil option. It's versatile because you can choose to snap the veil up when you don't want to use it plus you have the option of a removable neck flap. The brim is 3.2", UPF 50+, sweatband and mesh for ventilation, water-repellent, and easy to wash.

Philights 100% Cotton Women Sun Hat

If you want a hat that works in the garden as well as in your daily life, then take a look at this one. It's great because the brim has wire built into it that allows you to change the shape. Therefore, you can have a cute rolled-up brim when you're out and about but more shade when you're in the garden.

Kool Breeze Solar Hat

This one is for those people who might want to splurge a little on cost to get something really special. This is a lightweight breathable straw hat with a super wide brim and UPF 50+. What makes it really special is that it has. built-in fan, powered with solar power, to keep you cool as you garden. It comes in many different styles and will cost you about $60.

GearTOP Kids' Bucket Hats

Do your kids hang out in the garden with you? If so, you'll also want good sun protection for them. GearTOP has some of the best gardening hats for kids. They're lightweight, breathable, UPF 50+, and easy to adjust to the child's head size.

Upcycling in the Garden: Everyday Items That Can Be Functional Garden Decorations

If you take a look around your home, or even in your recycling bin, then you will probably find items that you can use in your garden. This is, obviously, good for the earth. When you upcycle everyday items into functional garden decorations, it also saves you money. After all, you don't have to buy something to enjoy the function you're creating when you use something that you already have.

Benefits of Upcycling in the Garden

Upcycling items for your garden has several benefits including:

Environmental Conservation

Upcycling reduces waste and promotes sustainable practices. By repurposing or reusing items that would otherwise end up in landfills, you contribute to the conservation of natural resources. Moreover, you reduce the need for new production. Remember: reduce, re-use, recycle.

Financial Savings

Obviously, we love frugal gardening options around here. Upcycling allows you to save money on purchasing new garden items. Instead, you can creatively transform everyday objects into functional garden decorations.

Unique and Personalized Garden Design

Upcycling gives you the opportunity to create one-of-a-kind pieces for your garden. Each upcycled item becomes a unique feature, making your garden stand out. By repurposing different materials, you can add a personal touch and express your creativity.

Flexibility and Versatility

Upcycling offers flexibility in terms of both design and functionality. The possibilities are endless. You can tailor your garden design to suit your preferences and needs.

Educational and Creative Experiences

Upcycling provides an opportunity for learning and experimentation. It encourages you to think outside of the box. This helps you to develop your problem-solving skills as you explore new ways to repurpose objects.

Encourages Gardening

Upcycled items can make gardening more accessible and enjoyable. By getting your creative brain thinking about how you can repurpose items into functional garden decorations, you get more and more excited about getting out into the garden. It keeps things interesting as the old becomes new again.

Everyday Items That Can Be Functional Garden Decorations

With enough creativity, you can repurpose just about any items into functional garden decorations. That said, here are some of the most popular everyday items to upcycle for the garden:

Old Tires

You can use old tires in the garden in many ways. They can become:

- plant beds and raised planters
- fencing, edging or used as a retaining wall
- trellis or shelving for a vertical garden
- lawn furniture and tire swings
- steps or stairs

I also recently learned that you can use them to make a small pond. Dig a hole in the ground and place a large tire inside the hole. Then line the tire with a pond liner and fill it with water. You can even create a small water feature by adding aquatic plants and small fish, just be sure to include Pond Pumps and any other necessary equipment if you plan on expanding your pond and enhancing its features. This is a great way to repurpose a large tire and attract wildlife to your garden. However, if you are looking for something a bit bigger than a tire for your pond, you'll need to ensure that you have the space of course. You don't have to go too big and can always keep it simple, but it would be nice to add something decorative that makes your garden stand out. Plus, you can add a plethora of additional features to your pond if it's bigger, such as pond fountains or mini-waterfalls.

Mason Jars

Mason jars are great for creating hanging lanterns or tea light holders. They can also become candle holders or you can insert solar-powered LED lights into them. These enhance the ambiance of the space, of course. However, they also serve as functional garden decorations since they bring light to the space.

Other ways to use mason jars as functional garden decorations include:

Add An Herb Garden Section to Your Garden

Fill mason jars with soil and different herbs. Hang the jars using twine. You can also use to create a hanging herb drying rack. Tie bundles of herbs together with twine and hang them upside down in the jars to dry.

Terrariums

Build mini terrariums inside mason jars by layering rocks, charcoal, soil, and small plants such as succulents or air plants. The clear glass allows you to observe the tiny ecosystem. Terrariums can be displayed on tabletops or used as hanging gardens.

Seed Storage

Use mason jars to store and organize your seeds. Label each jar with the seed type and date collected or purchased. The airtight seal of the jars helps maintain seed viability and keeps them protected from moisture and pests.

Garden Tool Storage

Attach mason jar lids to the underside of a shelf or a board in your garden shed or workspace. Screw the jars onto the lids, creating practical storage for small gardening tools, seeds, or other small items.

Other everyday items that you can turn into functional garden decorations for tool storage include:

- Wooden pallets, crates or boxes
- PVC pipes
- Buckets, bins, or other vessels
- Hanging shoe organizers
- Old aprons or purses with pockets

Plastic Bottles

Plastic bottles can be upcycled in numerous ways:

Hanging Planters:

Cut the top portion off a plastic bottle. Then poke holes in the bottom for drainage. Next, hang it upside down using string or wire. Fill it with soil and plant cascading flowers or herbs. Hang multiple bottles at different heights for an eye-catching vertical garden.

Self-Watering Planters

Create self-watering planters by cutting a plastic bottle in half and inverting the top portion (with the cap removed) into the bottom half. Fill the bottom half with water and place it in a tray or container. Insert a wick, such as a cotton string or fabric, through the bottle cap and into the soil. This allows the plant to draw up water as needed.

Drip Irrigation System

Make a DIY drip irrigation system by poking small holes in the bottom of a plastic bottle and burying it next to your plants. Fill the bottle with water. It will slowly release water into the soil.

Wine bottles, plastic bags, used ice cream containers, PVC pipes, and old watering cans can also all be recycled into drip irrigation systems.

Garden Edging

Cut plastic bottles into strips or use them whole to create edging. Bury them vertically along the edge of your garden beds to create a decorative and functional border. The different colors and shapes of the bottles can add visual interest to your garden.

You can also upcycle wine and beer bottles to create garden edging. Rope, twine, and bricks are also good choices if you have any around.

Seed Starters

Cut off the bottom section of a plastic bottle. Then use it as a mini greenhouse for seed starting. The clear plastic allows sunlight to penetrate while retaining moisture.

Other great everyday items that you can turn into seed starters include egg cartons and newspaper.

Bird Feeders

Create a bird feeder by cutting out openings on the sides of a plastic bottle. Insert wooden dowels or sticks through the bottle for birds to perch on while they feed. Hang the bottle in a tree or attach it to a fence or post.

You can also create bird feeders by recycling:

- egg cartons
- toilet paper rolls
- pinecones
- chipped tea cups
- citrus halves!

Plant Markers

Cut plastic bottles into rectangular shapes. Write the names of the herbs on the plastic with a permanent marker or paint. Then simply insert them into the soil next to each plant.

Kitchen utensils also make great plant markers. Just write the information on the handle and stick the spoon, fork, knife, or spatula into the ground!

5 Ways to Get Your Garden Ready for Fall on a Budget

August is officially here, which means autumn is right around the corner. While the idea of getting your garden ready for the cooler season might seem overwhelming, you don't need to worry! Here's how you can revamp your garden for fall without breaking your budget.

1. Compare Prices of Tools Online

If you've been using your tools throughout the spring and summer, you probably know if they need to be replaced by now. Prepare for the fall by deciding which tools you need to buy. Once you know what you need, compare the prices online so that you can buy it at the best rate. However, when you shop online, it is important to know what you are doing. Server attacks can leave you vulnerable to identity and credit card theft. Even Amazon recently had to guard itself against a massive DDoS attack on its server, with a peak volume of 2.3 Tbsp, which is the largest ever recorded. However, if you are careful with your information as you shop online, you can get some really great deals on necessary garden tools.

2. Buy Perennials When They're On Sale

Unlike annuals, perennial plants will grow back on their own in the spring. This means that if you buy it once, you don't need to keep buying the same plant in order to enjoy its presence in your garden. Perennials can be expensive when the season is just beginning. However, as fall arrives, garden centers will want to get rid of the perennials they have in stock. This means you're likely to find some great sale prices for these plants. While this might not serve you so well this year, it will allow you to have the beautiful plants you want next year without paying full price for them.

3. Recycle Old Fall Decor

If you've lived in your home for a while, you likely have some fall decor already. However, it can get worn out over the years. This is especially true when you're using it outside in your garden. Look at your existing fall decors and see how you can recycle them. Some of it might not be salvageable and you'll need to dispose of it. Others, however, could be upcycled into something new and fun. This will take a little extra work, but result in an exciting new addition to your fall garden that doesn't require you to spend a lot of money on it.

4. Consider Planting a Fall Garden

Did you know that some plants thrive in cool fall weather? A fall garden can be a great way to keep getting fresh produce well into the autumn, saving you money on your grocery bills. It can also add some color and decor to your yard as you plan for the fall. Look into what you need to grow things like kale and cabbage. If you plan it during the summer, you'll be all set for a successful fall garden.

5. Clean Your Tools

Before you put your gardening tools away for the winter, make sure that they are clean. The last thing you want to do in the spring is to pull out your tools to find them rusted or caked with dirt. If you're unsure of the best way to clean and store your tools, look for a website or server that can help you. If you take the time to do this now, you'll be in better shape for spring.

Getting your garden ready for fall does not need to be expensive. Whether you're planning another round of gardening or putting things to bed for the winter, you can do so cheaply. Then, you'll be ready to start it all over again in the spring.

5 Fun Ways to Use Yarn in the Garden

I am a crafter. Mostly, I crochet, although I also knit and weave and collage and enjoy some other crafty activities. As a result of my craft, I have a lot of yarn in my home. Most of it I will use to crochet, of course. However, over the years, I've found that yarn can be used in myriad ways. So, I got to thinking, how could I use yarn in the garden? Here are five ways that the frugal material of yarn can add both beauty and function to your gardening:

1. Self-Watering Plants With Yarn

Don't spend a lot of money on an automatic drip system to water your plants. Instead, use yarn. Real Simple explains that you can place a jar of water near your potted plants. Insert one end of yarn into the jar and the other deep into the soil of the plant. When the plant needs water, it will actually draw what it needs through the yarn from the jar. Amazing, right?!

2. Make Wool Compost

There are many different fiber types when it comes to craft yarn. If you craft with wool, then you have a lot more options in the garden. It's a natural material that will break down in the environment. It's safe for your land and your plants. For example, you can actually make a wool compost that works as well as peat does for mulching.

3. Make a Yarn Trellis

There are many different yarn trellis patterns and tutorials. Whether you make a simple yarn grid or a complex crochet trellis, you can use this in your garden to grow your plants vertically. It's one of the most affordable ways to build up and it's pretty as well.

4. Decorating the Garden with Yarn

Speaking of pretty, decor is one of the most popular ways to use your yarn in the garden. You can yarnbomb your plants and trees, knit or crochet ornaments to hang in the garden or create an entire little yarn fairy garden. Yarn adds even more color to your garden.

Note that you can also use yarn to label your plants. Assign each plant a specific color of yarn. Tie that color to a plant stake to place in the ground near the seeds for that plant. This is a great way to both decorate your garden with yarn and also remember what you planted where before it starts to grow each season!

5. Plant Holders

You can decorate any of your plant holders, indoor or out, using yarn. You can crochet or macrame hanging baskets to hold pots that you want to keep up off of the floor. Even if you don't have any specific craft skills, you can wrap yarn around containers or pots of any size to decorate them.

BONUS: Crafting in the Garden

Although I didn't include it in the main list, I can't neglect to mention the most obvious way that you can enjoy yarn in your garden. You can take your yarn out into the garden and craft there! Knitting and crochet offer so many health benefits. So does nature. When you combine the two by crafting in the garden, you reap more benefits of each/

7 Garden Gnomes Perfect for Gifting This Holiday Season

I've always loved garden gnomes – even after watching the horrifying Goosebumps episode titled 'Revenge of the Lawn Gnomes' as a kid. The Travelocity gnome is the cutest company mascot ever. And if you've never watched Gnomeo and Juliet, I highly recommend you do so immediately.

Garden gnomes are the ideal garden decoration, in my opinion. They add a touch of whimsy and color without bulk, but they're sturdy and don't require any special tools to install. Just pop one in the dirt next to your plants and enjoy it from afar.

In addition to being attractive garden installations, garden gnomes also make a great gift for your gardening friends. They're also usually inexpensive and available in a variety of styles. There's something for everyone – whether you're looking for a tiny stocking stuffer for a secret Santa exchange or a sentimental gift for a loved one. Here are a few gnome picks to help you shop this holiday season:

THE Garden Gnome

The quintessential gnome is available in two sizes – 6 or 10-inches – and features a tough weather-resistant construction.

Gnometastic Double Bird Garden Gnome

Consider this scandalous garden gnome for your gardening friend who has a cheeky sense of humor.

Gnome Solar Garden Light

Choose this dual-purpose gnome for a gardener looking to add more lighting to their garden area.

BigMouth Inc. The Great Garden Gnome Massacre

Quite possibly my favorite gnome on the planet! A hilarious and unique garden fixture for your horror-movie loving friend.

Big Mouth, Inc. Game of Thrones Garden Gnome

Have you run out of ideas for the Game of Thrones lover on your list? Worry not! This regal gnome statue is the perfect choice for the GOT fan who's still not ready to let go.

Rain Gauge Gnome

Gift this useful rain gauge gardener friends who seem to always have trouble watering their garden the appropriate amount.

Zombie Gnome by Design Toscano

Still looking for the perfect Halloween decor for your garden? Why not add this pair of skeletal gnomes to the mix? The creepy statue is made of sturdy crushed stone, so it's heavy and won't topple over and is coated with UV-resistant paint.

Solar Light Zen Meditating Garden Gnome

Add this dual-purpose gnome to your garden to evoke a sense of calm. The waterproof decoration features solar-powered lights that automatically go on and off thanks to a built-in light sensor.

Don't Forget to Bring Your Gnome in for the Winter

If you're buying a new gnome for your garden, don't forget to store it properly for the winter. Even the most durable statue is vulnerable to damage if left in the garden as snow begins to fall. Carefully store your gnomes in a safe location where they're unlikely to fall or get bumped. If concerned about damage in storage, wrap your precious gnomes in bubble wrap or newspaper.

5 Best Plants for a Privacy Wall

A little bit of privacy can turn a plain outdoor space into a cozy oasis. Climbing, vining, and towering plants are perfect natural plant privacy wall options. With a plant privacy wall, there's no need to fuss with the extra cost of lumber, fencing, or ready-made privacy accessories. Plants are a free, simple way to keep your yard, patio, or porch hidden from prying eyes. No need to worry about heading out to water your flowers in your pajamas!

A Word of Caution

Do your homework before settling on a plant for your DIY plant privacy wall. It may seem cheap now, but if you pick an invasive species, you'll end up spending a chunk of money on getting rid of the spreading beast.

Consider also how a plant-ish privacy wall will affect other plant life nearby. Will there be enough shade to grow your favorite tomatoes next year? Will you still be able to enjoy the sunshine on your patio?

Don't forget to find out how long it takes for the plant to mature. Will it take a decade for the vine to engulf your deck's trellis? A plant that grows too quickly may turn invasive. If it takes forever to spread, it'll be useless for immediate privacy purposes.

Lastly, does the plant provide privacy throughout the year? Evergreen cedars don't shed their leaves in the winter, so they act as a permanent living fence. Flowering vines, however, may wither away in the winter and fail to provide enough of a screen during the colder months. If you're not outside much in the winter, then this consideration matters little.

Best Plants for a Privacy Wall

Climbing Roses

What better way to gain privacy than with the help of beautiful blooms? Climbing roses pair well with a variety of support structures, so they're an excellent pick for an elevated patio or deck.

Bamboo

While some types of bamboo are invasive, others aren't as high maintenance. Bamboo is a tall plant that's super easy to grow. Avoid aggressive bamboo species that send out runners. Don't take chances, though. Install an underground barrier to prevent unwanted spread. Bamboo is an excellent choice for adding privacy around a pool area. It looks tropical, but it's a lot less work to maintain than other tropical plants.

Boxwood

While boxwood won't grow super tall, it's an excellent choice for adding privacy if you don't have a standard trellis or wall. I'm wary of vining plants because of a past (very awful) experience with an invasive vine, so I love the idea of placing attractive boxwood plants in tall pots for a chic, modern, privacy wall. Since nothing in containers is permanent, you can also move around the containers should you want to open up the previously hidden area.

Fake Plants

Hey, why not? Not everyone has a green thumb, but artificial plants are gaining momentum, and more people are adding them to their indoor and outdoor living spaces. Why? They require no water, no weeding—and they last forever. If you're prone to killing plants, faux greenery might be a worthy alternative to a living plant privacy wall.

Jasmine vine

This fragrant vining plant is a gorgeous summer bloomer. It takes a while for it to spread, so it's not for those who want instant-privacy. It's also better suited for warm climates and doesn't tolerate cold weather. You'll need to start training the vines early on to ensure that the plant grows onto its support structure. Pruning is also necessary to encourage a bushy growth habit.
